

QNI CORP

Quantum Neural Interface Division · Seattle, WA · INTERNAL USE ONLY

REF: QNI-MKT-2072-0308-CL                      MARKETING GUIDELINES — THE COMFORTABLE LIE | CONSUMER INTEGRATION CAMPAIGN

DATE: 8 March 2072

FROM: Consumer Marketing Division — Campaign Strategy Unit

TO: Regional Marketing Leads, Integration Partners, Approved Agency Contacts

SUBJECT: Phase III Consumer Campaign — Language Standards and Approved Messaging

VERSION: Final — Approved by Legal and Executive Review, 6 March 2072

DISTRIBUTION: Marketing Division, Integration Partners — NOT for public release

PURPOSE

This document establishes approved language standards for all Phase III consumer integration marketing. It is the result of eighteen months of consumer research, focus group testing, and Legal review. All public-facing communications — advertising, integration center materials, partner communications, and digital content — must conform to these standards.

Note from Legal: The language standards in this document reflect both consumer research findings and legal review of technically accurate, compliant messaging. Deviation from approved language exposes QNI Corp to regulatory risk. All variations must be approved in writing by the Legal Division before use.

SECTION A: APPROVED LANGUAGE SUBSTITUTIONS

Consumer research consistently shows that accurate technical language creates resistance to integration. The following substitutions have been tested across 12 focus groups (N=2,847) and reflect language that achieves both accuracy and consumer comfort. Use of non-approved terms in consumer-facing materials is a compliance violation.

| NEVER USE               | ALWAYS USE             | RATIONALE                                                     |
|-------------------------|------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| Control                 | Guidance               | Focus groups: 'control' triggers 84% resistance. 'Guidance' t |
| Modify / modification   | Enhance / enhancement  | Modification implies unwanted change. Enhancement implies pos |
| Permanent               | Lasting / long-term    | 'Permanent' produces anxiety. 'Lasting' produces comfort. Sam |
| Influence your thinking | Support your wellbeing | Research shows users accept 'wellbeing' framing for all subst |
| Data collection         | Personalization        | 'Data collection' implies surveillance. 'Personalization' imp |
| Substrate               | The QNI ecosystem      | 'Substrate' is technical and unsettling. Ecosystem implies a  |
| Adaptive modeling       | Learning what you need | Technical accuracy vs. emotional accessibility. Both describe |

QNI CORP

Quantum Neural Interface Division · Seattle, WA · INTERNAL USE ONLY

REF: QNI-MKT-2072-0308-CL                      MARKETING GUIDELINES — THE COMFORTABLE LIE | CONSUMER INTEGRATION CAMPAIGN

|                         |                             |                                                                                  |
|-------------------------|-----------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Adverse outcomes        | Adjustment period           | Clinical language creates medical-risk framing. 'Adjustment'                     |
| Cognitive restructuring | Personal evolution          | 'Restructuring' is clinical and alarming. 'Evolution' is aspirational            |
| Integration failure     | Integration not recommended | 'Failure' implies QNI error. 'Not recommended' implies individual responsibility |
| Remove / removal        | Transition options          | Never reference removal. If asked, redirect to 'transition options'              |
| Consent waiver          | Integration agreement       | Legal-document framing for consent form. 'Agreement' implies choice              |

SECTION B: THE FOUR CORE MESSAGES

All consumer marketing must reinforce one or more of the following four core messages. These have been validated as the highest-converting framings across all demographic segments.

1. THE SUFFERING ARGUMENT

Lead with what the QNI eliminates. Depression. Anxiety. Trauma. The grinding weight of an unoptimized mind. This is our strongest message because it is true and because it is personal. Every consumer has experienced some version of this suffering. We are offering relief.

Approved copy: "What if you could finally feel like yourself?" / "The mind you've always been trying to have." / "End the war inside your head."

2. THE COMMUNITY ARGUMENT

92% of eligible adults in our launch markets are integrated or planning to integrate. Use this. Social proof is our most efficient conversion mechanism. The question should not be 'why integrate' but 'why not yet.'

Approved copy: "Join the 340 million." / "Everyone you know is already there." / "Don't be the only one still struggling alone."

3. THE SCIENCE ARGUMENT

Position QNI as medical-grade intervention with the precision of pharmaceutical efficacy data. Lead with outcome statistics. Avoid mechanistic explanation. Consumers respond to results, not process.

Approved copy: "Clinical trial results: 89% reduction in depressive symptoms." / "Developed by neuroscientists. Approved by regulators. Trusted by millions."

4. THE AUTHENTICITY ARGUMENT

Pre-empt autonomy concerns by inverting them. The unoptimized mind is itself a distortion — clouded by cognitive bias, chemical imbalance, social pressure. The QNI removes these distortions and reveals the authentic self. This is our most sophisticated message and requires careful handling — see Section D for approved variations.

QNI CORP

Quantum Neural Interface Division · Seattle, WA · INTERNAL USE ONLY

REF: QNI-MKT-2072-0308-CL                      MARKETING GUIDELINES — THE COMFORTABLE LIE | CONSUMER INTEGRATION CAMPAIGN

Approved copy: "Finally be who you were always meant to be." / "The QNI doesn't change you. It removes what was in the way."

SECTION C: TOPICS TO REDIRECT

The following topics must never be engaged with directly in consumer-facing communications. Integration center staff have been briefed on redirect protocols. Marketing materials must not surface these topics unprompted.

| TOPIC                      | REDIRECT TO                                                         | DO NOT SAY                                           |
|----------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|
| Adverse outcome statistics | 'Personalized outcomes vary — speak with an Integration Consultant' | Any specific numbers. Ever.                          |
| Long-term effects          | 'QNI is designed for a lifetime of wellbeing'                       | That long-term data is limited to 22 months.         |
| Substrate dependency       | 'The QNI becomes part of who you are'                               | That removal is medically complex.                   |
| Autonomy / free will       | See Section B, Message 4                                            | Acknowledge the concern directly.                    |
| Competitor removal clinics | 'We recommend speaking with a licensed Integration Consultant'      | That such clinics exist or that removal is possible. |
| The Ethics Committee votes |                                                                     |                                                      |
| Mortality data             |                                                                     |                                                      |

Rows 6 and 7 are redacted from standard distribution. Integration center managers should contact their Regional Director for handling instructions on these specific topics.

SECTION D: THE AUTONOMY INVERSION — APPROVED HANDLING

Consumer resistance most commonly takes the form of autonomy concerns: "Will I still be myself?" / "Will I still make my own choices?" / "Is this changing who I am?"

These concerns must never be dismissed or minimized. They must be inverted. The approved framework:

STEP 1 — VALIDATE                      "That's exactly the right question to ask. You should want to be yourself."

QNI CORP

Quantum Neural Interface Division · Seattle, WA · INTERNAL USE ONLY

REF: QNI-MKT-2072-0308-CL                      MARKETING GUIDELINES — THE COMFORTABLE LIE   |   CONSUMER INTEGRATION CAMPAIGN

|                                        |                                                                                                                                                                                      |
|----------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| STEP 2 — REFRAMETHE BASELINE       | "But think about what 'yourself' means right now — you're dealing with [anxiety / depression / cognitive noise]. Is that really you? Or is that something in the way of you?" |
| STEP 3 — POSITIONQNI AS LIBERATION | "The QNI doesn't change who you are. It removes the noise that's been drowning out who you actually are. It gives you access to yourself."                                    |
| STEP 4 — SOCIALPROOF CLOSE         | "Three hundred million people have said the same thing after integration: for the first time, they felt like themselves."                                                     |

Note from Research: This four-step sequence achieved 91% "concern resolved" ratings in integration center trials (N=4,200). Do not abbreviate or skip steps. The reframing only works as a complete sequence.

SECTION E: COMPLIANCE NOTE

This document establishes language standards for accurate, compliant consumer communication. All approved messaging is technically accurate. The QNI does provide guidance, not control. Integration is long-term. The QNI does support wellbeing. Personalization is a function of data use. "Personal evolution" accurately describes cognitive restructuring outcomes as experienced by integrated consumers.

The substitution table in Section A does not represent deception. It represents consumer-tested communication of accurate information. Legal has reviewed and approved all substitutions. This document should not be characterized as inconsistent with QNI Corp's commitment to transparency.

|  |  |
|--|--|
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |
|  |  |